

From: Gamage, David
Subject: Good bye and thank you!
Date: January 13, 2024 at 3:58:04 PM CST
To: bl-law-teaching_faculty <bl-law-teaching_faculty@exchange.iu.edu>

Dear Friends and Colleagues,

With bittersweet feelings, I must say goodbye. As many of you know, this past fall, my wife, Shruti Rana, accepted a position as Assistant Vice Chancellor (<https://diversity.missouri.edu/2023/shruti-rana-appointed-assistant-vice-chancellor-of-inclusive-excellence-and-strategic-initiatives/>) and Professor of Law (<https://law.missouri.edu/person/shruti-rana/>) at the the University of Missouri. I have now also accepted a position as the Law School Foundation Distinguished Professor of Tax Law and Policy at the University of Missouri. Missouri has not yet announced this nor created a faculty profile for me, but I am expecting it to be announced and publicized probably within the next week.

I have greatly enjoyed my past seven years in Bloomington on the IU Maurer Law faculty, and it is with some sadness that I depart. I hope to see all of you at conferences and other events and that we all keep in touch. If the stars align and the right position opens up for Shruti at IU at some point perhaps we might even return someday.

(For any of you who follow Bloomington local politics and who might be curious, earlier today Shruti announced that she will be resigning from her Bloomington City Council seat, effective February 7th, due to our family relocating to Missouri.)

With great thanks and wishing you all the best!

David

David Gamage
William W. Oliver Chair in Tax Law and Professor of Law
Indiana University Maurer School of Law
Office 321
211 S. Indiana Ave.
Bloomington, IN 47405