Qualifications & Experience

Tree Martin Lucas brings nearly eight years of direct, hands-on experience in the Monroe County Clerk’s Office — experience that uniquely prepares her to serve as Clerk from her first day in office.

She began her service as Election Supervisor, a role she held for over a year, directly managing elections, overseeing voter registration processes, and ensuring strict compliance with Indiana election law. Based on her performance and leadership, she was appointed Chief Deputy Clerk, where she served the community for more than six and a half years and became the office’s senior operational leader.

During her tenure as Chief Deputy Clerk, Tree Martin Lucas was required to conduct an election while continuing to fulfill all of her responsibilities as Chief Deputy, during a period when the county was without an Election Supervisor. In addition to managing the daily operations of the Clerk’s Office, she oversaw election administration and the Voter Registration Office simultaneously.

Balancing these dual responsibilities required deep knowledge of election law, strong organizational leadership, and steady decision-making. Tree successfully managed both roles, ensuring continuity of operations and delivering an election that Monroe County voters knew they could trust.

With unmatched experience, deep institutional knowledge, and a proven ability to lead in demanding circumstances, Tree Martin Lucas is the most qualified candidate to serve as Monroe County Clerk and is ready to hit the ground running on day one.
