Monroe County Election Supervisor, Kylie Farris Earns Federal Election Administration Certification

Bloomington, Indiana – September 2, 2026 – Kylie Farris, Election Supervisor of the Monroe County Election Central Office has earned the U.S. Election Assistance Commission's (EAC) Certificate of Federal Professional Training, a national credential for election professionals dedicated to expanding their knowledge, skills, and expertise.

That achievement reflects a deep commitment to professional growth and continuous learning, a standard shared by election professionals nationwide.

The EAC's no-cost certification program offers professional development for election administrators across the country. The curriculum spans foundational and advanced topics including election law, accessibility, office administration, communications, voting systems and technology, and poll worker training. Candidates must complete 30 training credits to qualify. Learn more at eac.gov/learninglab.

Farris has worked hard for the past three years in her job to create a transparent and nonpartisan office in her community. Her passion for elections is clear with her continued dedication to learning and holding free and fair elections. Farris has continued to make changes to better serve the community of Monroe County such as creating the Civic Student Network Program, an educational program about Elections for high school students. She is a true inspiration to the next generation of Election Administrators, Voters, and Elected Officials. This Certification is one of many that Farris holds including the Certification in Election Administration, Technology, and Security (CEATS) from Ball State University, Indiana Secretary of State Office, and VSTOP. In addition to the Certifications Farris also serves as the Vice President of the Indiana Voter Registration Association.

The Monroe County Election Central Office remains committed to transparency, accuracy, and the highest standard of service for voters.

About the U.S. Election Assistance Commission (EAC): The EAC is an independent, bipartisan federal commission whose mission is to help election officials improve the administration of elections and help Americans participate in the voting process. Learn more at eac.gov.
